Exercise: Researching Your Habitat

Purpose: To learn how Habitat Tracker© can help us organize and track the resources we use when acquiring information about habitats and wildlife.

1. Look back through the worksheets you have already completed and note any questions or fact areas that you left blank because you did not know the answer.

2. In the space below, write down some additional resources that might help you find the answers to the questions or facts you listed above.

3. List 4 types of reference materials that could help you find information about a habitat or the wildlife in that habitat.
